10. Each shipment to be examined at once upon arrival. Claims as to apparent defects of the seed or packing, also re short weight are to be raised at the latest on the third week day; complaints re vitality three weeks after receipt of the goods. Defects which may only be ascertained later on, must be notified without delay as soon as they are perceptible. Later claims cannot be entertained.
11. Should purchaser justly refuse the goods either on account of any defects which have been found upon examination or insufficient vitality, seller is obliged to take back same, without being bound, however, to make neither a fresh delivery nor an allowance or amends whatever.
